Dominic Dominguez supports the firm's attorneys and clients with a focus on employment-based immigration matters. Since joining the firm in 2016, Dominic has become an integral member of the team, bringing a meticulous eye for detail and a collaborative approach to every case.

He assists in the preparation of visa petitions and applications including H-1B, L-1, and TN cases, as well as immigrant petitions and Adjustment of Status filings. Dominic helps ensure that filings are complete, accurate, and meet agency requirements. His work includes compiling evidence, preparing forms, tracking deadlines, and providing clear communication with clients and government agencies.

Dominic holds a B.S. in Psychology from Loyola University and earned his Paralegal Certificate from Harper College. Having worked at a law firm prior to joining Masuda Funai, he developed a strong foundation in legal processes and client service.
